

Home

Colorado
University of Colorado
at Boulder

About Us

Projects-

Publications

For Students

Outreach

Search

Quickclicks

Location: > Info

CIRES Distinguished Lecture Series:

Steve Rayner

James Martin Professor of Science and Civilization, University of Oxford,
Member Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution,
Honorary Professor of Climate Change and Society, University of Copenhagen

October 23, 2009 at 4:00 pm

CIRES Auditorium

The Cooperative Institute for Research in Environmental Sciences (CIRES) seeks to promote global perspectives by sponsoring distinguished speakers whose work crosses disciplinary boundaries. The Distinguished Lecture Series is designed to bring outstanding scientists, as well as historians of science, science policy makers, and science journalists, and others—see past distinguished lectures—who take imaginative positions on environmental issues and can establish enduring connections after their departure. Participants interests embrace those of the University departments and programs, and the NOAA labs affiliated with CIRES. The Lecture Series is presented in each academic year. More Information.

Sitemap | Contact | Find us | Email webmaster